

Regarding the Use of Temporary Childcare Service at Nagoya University Cosmos Nursery School

Office in charge of Nagoya University Cosmos Nursery School

Introduction

The Nagoya University Cosmos Nursery School is small in size, and there is a limit to the number of children it can accommodate for temporary childcare. Please note that urgent requests for this service may not be accepted if a sufficient number of nursery staff are not available. If you wish to use our temporary childcare service, you are advised to take the necessary procedures well in advance.

Eligibility for Temporary Childcare

Temporary childcare service can be provided only when the child who is cared for and the family members who live with the child are in good physical health. Children with any of the following symptoms cannot use our temporary childcare service. If your child has a fever, a respiratory symptom, diarrhea or vomiting, please take a one-day rest after such a symptom subsides and before using the service.

- ☐ Fever of 37.5°C or higher
- ☐ Respiratory symptoms, such as wheezing and coughing
- ☐ Diarrhea/vomiting
- ☐ Poor appetite (almost difficult to eat food)
- ☐ Class I, II or III school infectious disease as set forth in the School Health and Safety Act
- ☐ Bone fracture and other conditions that make participation in group childcare difficult
